

DBMS Exam

- Q1. In a typical university database, what is the purpose of the Time slot id field?
- A) To store the course name
 - B) To store the time slot for a particular section
 - C) To store the instructor ID
 - D) To store the building where the course is held
- Q2. What is the data type for storing the semester in a typical university database?
- A) Boolean
 - B) Numeric
 - C) Varchar
 - D) Date
- Q3. How many lecture hours are assigned to the DSA subject in a typical university database?
- A) 6
 - B) 4
 - C) 7
 - D) 5
- Q4. What is the primary key constraint on the course_id, sec_id, semester and year fields in a typical university database?
- A) Primary key
 - B) Foreign key
 - C) Check
 - D) Unique
- Q5. What is the data type for storing the author ID in a typical university database?
- A) Float
 - B) Integer
 - C) Varchar
 - D) Numeric
- Q6. How many practical hours are assigned to the DSA subject in a typical university database?
- A) 5
 - B) 2
 - C) 3
 - D) 0
- Q7. What is the primary key of the TOC subject in a typical university database?
- A) 346CT
 - B) KP05
 - C) 4,0

D) all of the above

Q8. What is the purpose of the lecture_hour field in a typical university database?

- A) To store the building where the course is held
- B) To store the course name
- C) To store the instructor name
- D) To store the lecture hours for a particular course

Q9. What is the difference between a lock and a write operation in a typical database?

- A) Lock is used for reading and write is used for writing
- B) Lock is used for writing and write is used for reading
- C) Lock is used to prevent other processes from modifying a resource and write is used to update it
- D) Lock is used to update a resource and write is used to prevent other processes from modifying it

Answer Key

1. B	2. C	3. A	4. A	5. D
6. C	7. A	8. D	9. C	